

Chiropractors Improve Patient Care and Reduce Audit Risk with Interactive Component-Driven SOAP Notes

Dumont, New Jersey (PRZOOM) March 14, 2007 – Billing Precision, the leading provider of chiropractic practice management solutions, has released Component Driven SOAP notes to help chiropractors improve patient care, increase practice profitability, and reduce audit risk.

Since insufficient notes are the most frequent reason for failing a post-payment insurance audit, timely filing of compliant SOAP notes and submission of congruent insurance claims are the most mission critical parts of any practice management automation solution. But SOAP notes and insurance billing are also the most complex parts of such solutions, often confusing doctors and degrading practice profitability.

Chiropractors using Vericle's SOAP notes, receive a training video, which has two parts. The first video trains chiropractors taking SOAP notes during the initial visit and the second – during subsequent visits. Billing Precision's video training materials teach the doctor how to access the notes directly from Patient Appointment Scheduler, register Subjective complaints, documents results of Objective tests that support patient's complaints, log Activities and Daily Living indicators, show diagnosis Assessment isolating the problem for treatment, create comprehensive Plan, and quickly generate useful and compliant narrative.

“The intuitive ability to manage compliant notes in minimal time without delaying the patient flow is especially important in a high-volume practice environment,” says Dr. Brian Capra, DC, and a partner at Billing Precision. “Component Driven SOAP notes integrated with touch-screen technology help both meeting regulatory compliance requirements and saving time spent for visit documentation.”
