Chiropractors Learn to Reduce Audit Risks and Improve Coding

Billing Precision's Webinar "How to Hang Onto Your Money?" Scheduled for September 20, 2006

Dumont, New Jersey (PRWEB) August 28, 2006 – Dr. Ben Lerner, founder of Teach The World About Chiropractic and author of "One Minute Wellness," discovered a convenient way to educate thousands of chiropractors about coding compliance and audit risk reduction. "Compliance maintenance requires special skills and military discipline," says Dr. Lerner, "Webinars are especially useful for audit risk management instruction because they deliver urgently needed education but require minimal investment in terms of time and cost."

Increasing frequency of post-payment insurance audits and mounting severity of penalties, ranging from license suspension to heavy monetary fines, emphasize the need for effective and affordable education about compliant office management and audit risks. Prepared by the authors of "The Business of Healthcare Provider Audits," this specialized Webinar on Billing Audit Risk reflects years of cumulative experience of hundreds of doctors and post-payment audits. The webinar offers three-fold benefits to its participants:

- Lower audit risk because of more effective coding and SOAP note compliance,
- Higher revenue because of more effective billing, and
- Improved efficiency of patient flow management.

"No insurance company offers protection against potentially enormous penalties in case of post-payment audit," says Jeff Randolph, Esq., Legal Counsel to the Association of New Jersey Chiropractors and a webinar co-author. "Webinars leverage Internet to bring together remote participants while viewing the same visuals or computer application. It is a truly unique service designed to both protect the practice and ensure its maximal profitability."
